Arrange start date and induction program

Start of employment and Induction

All new employees will be provided with an induction program which will cover:

- Responsibilities with regards to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children
- Child protection procedures
- Health and safety
- The unique ethos and ways of working at Venture.
- See induction plan

Induction training plan:

- The induction period lasts for the first term of employment. If the induction requirements are not met by the end of the first term, this may be extended for a further term at the manager's discretion.
- The new employee works alongside a manager / leader for the first few weeks.
- The manager / leader discusses the points in the induction plan document in order to introduce the new employee to the ethos and ways of working at Venture.
- The new employee takes part in an induction training day, within the first half term, which looks more closely at the Venture ethos and ways of working and gives an opportunity to observe the manager / leader, discuss with other staff members and ask questions.
- The new employee takes part in a supervision meeting within the first half term, and every half term thereafter until induction is complete. Progress with the induction requirements is discussed as part of the supervision meeting.
- The new employee takes part in peer observation, both observing and being observed at least once during their first term.
- The new employee is given time to read the Venture policies and procedures, the Guidance for Staff and other training support materials on Tapestry.
- We recognise that due to the unique ethos and ways of working at Venture, new employees may find meeting the induction standards more challenging than in other early years settings. If the new employee is finding it difficult to meet the induction requirements before the end of the induction period, it may mean that the particular role is not suitable for them. The manager and employee will meet to discuss this as soon as possible and decide upon a plan to support the employee which may include temporarily working for fewer days or taking on less responsibility. We also recognise that working in this way is not necessarily suited to every practitioner, and may advise that the job is not the right fit.

Ensuring continued suitability of staff

Supervisions take place once per half term to discuss

- Children's progress.
- Disclosures.
- Organisational / legislation updates.
- Sharing information about any areas of concern in the setting.
- Offering practical advice and support and giving positive feedback.
- Identifying issues or problems at an early stage and challenging poor practice.
- Monitoring training and development progress and identifying future training needs.

Supervisions

Although not a requirement of the EYFS, supervisions are still carried out as best practice. Supervision is a one-to-one meeting between staff member, leader and manager. During supervision the manager will carry out and record an assessment of the employee's performance, potential and development needs on a termly basis. This process should enable the staff member to understand what expectations have been placed on their role in the past term and for the coming term. It creates an opportunity to review performance and development, to identify reasons why some targets have not been achieved, and to praise those which have been exceeded. This is reviewed and repeated termly. This means that progress can be monitored and adaptations made if targets are unrealistic.

Training

Essential training required to comply with Ofsted and EYFS regulations and standards:

- All staff must receive Induction Training (refer to the Induction section).
- All staff are expected to continue to read the EYFS, our own training guidelines and our recommended material in order to fully understand our ethos and unique way of working with children.

- Group 2 Safeguarding Awareness for all staff, including part-time workers and volunteers.
- Minimum full and relevant Level 3 qualification for supervisors.
- At least 50% of remaining staff must have a full and relevant Level 2 qualification.
- Food Hygiene (for all staff in group provision involved in preparing and handling food).
- All staff have sufficient understanding and use of English to ensure the well-being of children in their care.

Desirable training to improve the knowledge and the quality of the setting:
